Season 3 Episode 89 - Interview With The Skeptic Metaphysician Podcast

Exploring Scepticism, Spiritual Awakening & Podcasting with The Skeptic Metaphysicians

Hello and welcome to Mediumship Matters with me, Hannah Macintyre! I'm really excited today because I have not one, but two incredible guests—Will and Karen from The Skeptic Metaphysicians podcast. Their show is absolutely fantastic, covering a wide range of spiritual topics, and I wanted all of you to have the opportunity to experience their work. So, we're doing a bit of a podcast swap!

How The Skeptic Metaphysicians Was Born

Will has always been interested in metaphysics and spirituality but had only ever dipped his toes into different modalities. Then COVID hit. Like many of us, he faced a personal crisis, looking in the mirror and not recognizing the person staring back. Therapy reintroduced him to meditation, which led him back to old spiritual books, including Conversations with God. That book changed everything.

Inspired by his own journey, Will started recording his thoughts—stream-of-consciousness reflections on spirituality and personal growth. What started as a private outlet soon evolved into a podcast, as he reached out to spiritual practitioners he had met years before. His goal? To explore Reiki, psychic abilities, mediumship, and other mystical topics in a way that made sense to a sceptic.

Karen later joined as a co-host, adding her own unique perspective. She has always known there was more to life, without needing proof. Their differing perspectives created the perfect dynamic for exploring spiritual topics through the lens of curiosity and reason.

The Podcast That Almost Ended

Like many independent podcasters, Will found himself overwhelmed with editing, production, and the sheer time commitment of running a show. One evening, he and Karen sat down, ready to shut it all down—but a quick Google search changed everything.

To their surprise, they found pages of five-star reviews from listeners they never knew existed. One review, in particular, hit home—a listener described their podcast as his source of inspiration and surrender during his Phoenix journey. That was the moment they knew they couldn't stop. The show was helping people, and that made it all worth it.

- Since then, The Skeptic Metaphysicians has grown exponentially, winning a Signal Award and continuing to attract listeners who are seeking spiritual awakening, guidance, and reassurance that they're not alone.

The COVID Awakening

COVID was devastating, but it also served as a catalyst for many people's spiritual awakenings. Will describes the pandemic as almost feeling tailor-made for his transformation, as it gave him the space to pause, reflect, and change. He is now a completely different person than he was when he first started the podcast—and he wouldn't have it any other way.

Karen agrees, adding that lockdown forced people to stop and assess whether their lives were truly fulfilling. It wasn't just about slowing down; it was about making different choices—choices that prioritize happiness and well-being.

Personal Spiritual Growth & Unexpected Gifts

One of the most unexpected outcomes of hosting the podcast has been Karen's own spiritual development. While Will has always been analytical and sceptical, Karen has always felt connected to something greater. However, it wasn't until the podcast that she truly started to recognize and develop her own intuitive abilities.

She describes a moment during an interview when she felt an overwhelming emotional response to a guest's message about a collective angelic energy called the Judah Collection. Since then, her connection to spirit has continued to grow, leading to spontaneous messages, physical sensations, and a deepening trust in her intuition.

Meanwhile, Will continues to seek tangible proof. Despite having had profound experiences, he still finds himself questioning—something that Karen lovingly teases him about! But as she points out, even when he asks for signs (like a specific animal appearing), they always show up... just not always on his timeline!

What's Been Their Most Mind-Blowing Podcast Episode?

With so many incredible guests, it's tough to pick favourites, but here are some standout interviews that left a lasting impact:

- Angie Hippo & The Judah Collection – The interview that sparked Karen's spiritual awakening, introducing them to a massive collective of angelic beings.
- Jonathan Robinson – A man who has meditated with the Dalai Lama, interviewed Mother Teresa, and is friends with Ram Dass—a conversation filled with laughter and wisdom.
- Astral Projection Expert – A guest who provided the most detailed, practical explanation of astral projection they've ever encountered.
- Reverse Speech Investigator – A researcher who has spent decades analysing speech played backward, revealing hidden subconscious messages.

The Importance of Scepticism & Discernment

Despite their openness, Will and Karen emphasize the importance of discernment. The spiritual world is vast, and not everyone in it operates with integrity. While they now believe, they also know that some people take advantage of others' spiritual curiosity. Their advice? Stay open-minded, but trust your intuition when something feels off.

The Evolution of Their Beliefs

So, after all these experiences, do they believe?

Will: Yes, absolutely. I don't know exactly what I believe, but I know there's more to this world than just the physical. I used to fear death, but now I feel at peace knowing we are so much more than our bodies.

Karen: I've always believed, but now I believe so much more than I ever thought possible. I don't just believe—I feel it.

Unlike traditional podcast networks, there's no competition—only collaboration and support for those seeking deeper understanding.

Final Thoughts

- Your spiritual journey doesn't have to fit anyone else's mould.
- Scepticism isn't a bad thing—it keeps you grounded and discerning.
- Spiritual awakenings come in different forms and at different times.
- The universe always provides signs—you just have to be open to seeing them.
